

Photo Policy, Ethics and Permissions

1. Submission of photos to the DoD PIF Photo Library website gives permission to the members of this membership only web group to use the photos for avian out-reach, management and conservation related publications only. Use of the photos or content for profit is not authorized.
2. You must have the right to submit a photo. If you do not own it please do not submit it.
3. Do not submit any photo that contains sensitive or classified information.
4. Follow the submission instructions found under the Library tab.
5. Site administrators maintain the right to reject any photo due to quality or content or other reasons deemed applicable.
6. Site accessibility and permission will be the following for photos.
 - Only group members will be able to download photos from the website.
 - Site administrators must approve new members to give this permission.
 - Non-members can view the website and photos but cannot download photos.
 - Membership can be revoked if photo policy is violated.
7. Photos may be deleted (by request) after submission through the system administrator
8. Administrators will not have control of photos already downloaded by members and therefore cannot manage their use.
9. Credit should be given to the photographer for each use of their photo.
If you do not agree with any of the above please do not submit your photos.
